POTSDAM, July 26 (AP)—The United States, Britain and China tonight issued a joint proclamation to Japan to cease resistance or see its homeland utterly destroyed.

(BBC said that President Truman, Premier Churchill and President Chiang Kai-shek had conferred "and agreed that Japan shall be given an opportunity to end this war."

(The broadcast said the leaders of the three powers had issued a 13-point declaration to the Japanese people to desert their leaders and give in against the "prodigious power" arrayed against Japan.

(One point of the proclamation, the radio account said, demanded that "Japan must accept unconditional surrender now."

(The proclamation warned the Japanese that the three Allies were "poised to strike the final blow at Japan"

3 Jap Cities Fired in Triple B-29 Raid

By Associated Press

More than 350 Superfortresses dropped more than 2200 tons of fire bombs today on three industrial cities scattered over three Jap home islands. Splitting into three task forces, the Superforts in the early morning darkness roared in at medium altitude and showered their incendiaries on these three prime targets:

Omuta, one of the empire's most important chemical centers on the southernmost island of Kyushu.

Matsuyama, important port city on the western shores of the island of Shikoku.

Tokuyama, another chemical center and refining city on the main home island of Honshu.

It was the third time this week that the silvery sky giants blasted the enemy homeland.

Omuta had been hit June 18, but today's raid was the first on the urban areas of the other two cities although the naval fueling station and a synthetic oil plant on the Tokuyama waterfront and the Matsuyama air field had been raided previously.

Matsuyama's cotton fabric mills have been mostly converted to war production.

Tokuyama, 50 miles east of Shimonoseki strait, is the home of two large soda and chemical plants, a large refinery and oil tank farms. It covers about one square mile and its houses are highly inflammable.

Previously 20 Jap warships and 82 other surface craft were knocked out in a single day's air raids by combined U. S. British carrier forces, presumably still roaming Jap waters.

On Tuesday 1200 planes from Adm. Halsey's carriers damaged the greater part of the bedraggled Imperial Fleet and knocked out 150 planes.

The 20 warships bombed or torpedoed included three battleships, six aircraft carriers and five cruisers. Twenty merchant ships were sunk. Sixty-two other cargo vessels and smaller craft ranging down to barges were damaged.

This toll was taken along the inland sea, most of it at the once great Kure naval base.

A new island invasion which would carry Allied forces half way from Rangoon to Singapore was reported by Tokyo. A reconnaissance force of 500 amphibious troops was said to have landed yesterday on Puket island, 625 miles north of the Singapore naval base under cover of a bombardment by two cruisers. Tokyo said they were driven off.

Chinese recaptured Namyang, 155 miles northeast of Canton, former base for the U. S. 14th Air Force. Chungking said China could now resume movement of wolfram to U. S. steel mills.

Japan Weighs Surrender If U. S. Eases Terms

NEW YORK, July 26 (INS)—Japan would be willing to give up the fight if the United States guaranteed officially, the modification of the unconditional surrender formula, Radio Tokyo indicated today. Apparently in reply to the surrender demand made Saturday by Navy

Capt. E. M. Zacharias, the Tokyo broadcast, as recorded by the FCC, declared:

"Should America show any sincerity (in) putting into practice what she preaches, as for instance in the Atlantic Charter, excepting its punitive clause, the Japanese nation, in fact the Japanese military, would automatically, if not willingly (several words missing) follow in the stopping of the conflict."

"And then, and then only, will sabres cease to rattle both in the East and in the West."

In his surrender broadcast, Capt. Zacharias, acting as official spokesman for the U. S. government, held forth the promise that the enemy could make a "peace with honor" if surrender negotiations were instituted promptly.

In such a case, he stressed, Japan would reap the benefits of the Atlantic Charter.

(The magazine Newsweek said that Premier Stalin went to the Potsdam conference with a Japanese peace offer. The magazine added the offer was based on the condition that the Japanese home islands remain free from American occupation.)

The English language broadcast was beamed to North America as the enemy home islands were being pounded anew by Allied sea and air forces.

The broadcast went on to assert that there were no problems between a "liberal America" and Japan, but that American minds had become "dictatorial and oppressive" in regard to unconditional surrender terms.

"Though its official quarters keep relative silence," the Jap commentator continued in pressing an appeal for more lenient terms, "its official publicists declare that Japan should be stripped of this or that."

"In short, they intend to mete out such a hard retribution that the Japanese people are more determined than ever to unite and resist as a united mass of 100 million souls and will go on as long as American minds remain dictatorial and oppressive."

The broadcast then quoted the following Ascop cable to underscore its appeal:

"He (Ascop) suggests two methods in which a man might surrender his possessions."

"The wind said forcefully to the sun that he could make a passerby give up his overcoat quicker than the sun. It began to blow harder and harder, but the man held the coat tighter and tighter. The wind failed."

"The sun took his part. He gently smiled and warned the passerby with his sunbeams. The passerby shed his coat."

Total Surrender Still Stands, Grew Says

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Grew declared today the policy of the government toward ending the war with Japan remains unconditional surrender—regardless of the latest enemy peace-feelers.

U. S. Casualties Reach 1,058,842

WASHINGTON, July 26 (INS)—American casualties in all services today totaled 1,058,842, dead, wounded, missing and prisoners of war.

This was an increase of 5741 over total reported a week ago for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

Pétain-Laval Plot Told

By LOUIS NEVIN

PARIS, July 26 (AP)—Jules Jeanneney, former president of the French Senate, told a High Court of Justice today that the machinations of Pierre Laval made Marshal Pétain dictator when France collapsed in 1940 and that the two men "made common cause together."

The white-haired witness appeared at this fourth day of Pétain's trial on charges of betraying France.

Jeanneney, president of the Senate in 1940, described an extraordinary session of Parliament in which Laval, Vichy Chief of Government, suppressed debate and rammed through three "constitutional acts" abrogating the constitution and giving the marshal virtually unlimited powers.

He said Pétain showed "deplorable weakness" when he succeeded Paul Reynaud as premier at Bordeaux in June, 1940.

"Let us admit that we had no other choice," Jeanneney said.

As the witness left the courtroom the 89-year-old Marshal, who had been maintaining an aloof air, made the extraordinary gesture of bowing to the witness. Jeanneney bowed in return.

Louis Marin, former Minister of State, then testified that Pétain blocked the French government from moving to Africa when the Germans overran the country.

When the trial opened, Defense Atty. Jean LeMaire read a short statement from Pétain denying Pétain ever sent a telegram to Hitler.

"The prosecution alleged that Pétain congratulated the Germans on having repelled the Canadian attack at Dieppe and requested that France be allowed to participate in the fight against Allied invasion," LeMaire said. "I have this statement from Pétain: 'I am certain I never gave any order to send such a cable. I cannot believe that any authority other than the Foreign Office would have been entrusted with such a message.'"

Jeanneney said the Reynaud cabinet considered moving both to England and North Africa in the last days before Pétain became Premier and that the Marshal flatly refused to leave France.

Shortly after the armistice was signed, Jeanneney said, Laval came to him and asked him to convoke the Senate. "I curtly refused," Jeanneney said, "but next day, two decrees were promulgated ending the regular session of Parliament and conconvoking it as an extraordinary session on July 9."

French Countess Held As Terrorist Leader

PARIS, July 26 (INS)—A French countess and 10 men masquerading as "resistance members" were held today by French police on charges of terrorist activities against Jews and Communists.

French secret police said the leader was Countess Marie Louise de Neuville and that their arrest followed the finding of an unexploded bomb under a Jewish store.

7 Million U. S. Army to Hit Japs

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Gen. Jacob L. Devers, new chief of Army ground forces, said today the plan is to mass a force for a single crushing blow against Japan, adding "there's no use doing it piecemeal."

Devers said "we hope to get these 7,000,000 (the Army total after partial demobilization) re-deployed against the Japs in a single blow."

He explained he did not mean the whole 7,000,000 could be used "on one small island" but that they would be needed all along the line of supply that feeds the forces at the front.

The big job now, he said, is to get furloughed men back to camp and put them in re-training. Along with them must be trained recruits who will go into the re-organized outfits. The men will be given a minimum of eight weeks' retraining.

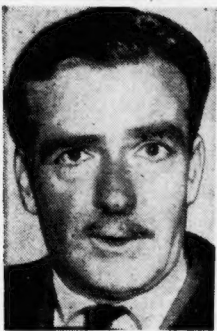

Japs List U. S. Dead On Torpedoed Ship

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Japan has informed the War Department that 542 American prisoners of war were killed outright when a Jap prison ship was torpedoed in Subic Bay in December, 1944.

Fifty-nine died later, two survived and evaded capture, and 618 survived and presumably were moved to Japan. The War Department has received a partial list of the dead. Relatives of 616 have been notified.

British Labor Party In Smashing Victory

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Winston Churchill resigned tonight as Prime Minister in the wake of a voting tabulation which showed the strongly Socialistic Labor Party had won a 2-to-1 landslide over Churchill's Conservatives in the July 5 election. Clement R. Attlee, who spearheaded the Labor Party triumph in the first general election Britain has had in 10 years, was commissioned by King George to form a new Labor government.

The count showed the Laborites had won 381 seats in the 640-seat House of Commons, to the Conservatives' 193, as the wartime leader presented his resignation at Buckingham Palace.

King George VI immediately accepted the resignation of the 70-year-old statesman.

Churchill gave his last V-sign as premier when he drove through the palace gate, sitting alone in the back seat of his automobile. His grave face was broken by a brief smile for a little crowd which greeted him as the sentries saluted.

Churchill had been Prime Minister since May 10, 1940. Returns available at 6:30 p. m. showed that in the popular vote Labor had 11,567,996 to the Conservative Party's 8,656,966.

The clearcut, left-swinging victory for the Labor Party will enable Attlee, former Deputy Prime Minister, to form the first one-party government Britain has had since 1931.

Attlee faces twin tasks of leading Britain's part of the war on by industrialized sections of the country—areas regarded as party strongholds. But there were upsets, too, for the Conservatives in scattered country districts.

Among the casualties were the prime minister's son, Maj. Randolph Churchill, and Minister of Works Duncan Sandys, Churchill's son-in-law.

The defeated also included: First Lord of the Admiralty Brendan Bracken, Minister of War Sir James Grigg, Minister of Education Richard K. Law.

L. S. Amery, secretary of state for India, Sir Walter Womersley, minister of pensions.

Air Minister Harold MacMillan, Leslie Hore-Belisha, independent, minister of national insurance, Geoffrey Lloyd, minister of information.

Sir William Beveridge, Liberal, author of the social security plan which bears his name.

King George VI likely will call on Attlee, the party's mild-mannered and Oxford-educated leader, to form the new government on reconvening of Parliament, Aug. 8.

The King followed the election developments on ticker tape at Buckingham Palace. Churchill watched the results come in at 10 Downing Street, his official residence.

In his own district Churchill retained his House seat by a vote of 27,688 to 10,488.

The Labor party last formed the government in 1929 under the late Ramsay MacDonald, and held power until 1931 when it was forced to go to the people on the gold standard issue.

There has been little outward difference of opinion between the

Attlee Pledges Bold Program

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Clement Richard Attlee spoke out tonight for "co-operation with other nations, particularly our great allies, the United States of America and the Union of the Soviet Socialist Republics."

"These clever, clever people of the Conservative central office, with Mr. Churchill and his political agents, have proved much too clever," the 62-year-old Laborite said. "The country however, has been wise and sound in its outlook."

"The business of the Labor government will be bold, determined, sound and sensible to carry through their program. We have a combination of boldness and good sense."

Attlee is 62, eight years younger than Winston Churchill.

Attlee, his wife and 18-year-old daughter, listened to returns in the London East End where he served as deputy prime minister in the coalition government that carried Great Britain from the darkest days of defeat to triumph over Germany.

Attlee has been overshadowed throughout the war by Prime Minister Churchill whom he defeated his Conservative opponent, Lt. Alfred Woodward, 3,896 to 1618.

Attlee States Labor's Aims

LONDON, July 26 (INS)—Prime Minister-elect Attlee declared today:

"This is the first time in the history of this country that labor ever had a clear majority, and it will enable us to implement the policy of the Socialist party."

"It shows that the electorate will respond to a clear and definite policy based on principles and the application of these principles to the needs of the present day."

26 years for the cause of Socialism in England and today was on the threshold of No. 10 Downing st., residence of British prime ministers. He was graduated from Oxford.

If he steps into Churchill's shoes, he will direct one of the most sweeping changes of modern times.

His party advocates a "Socialist Commonwealth of Great Britain," with nationalization of all its basic industries, public ownership of the Bank of England and ultimately nationalization of the land.

Attlee lacks the vividness of Churchill, but there is no doubt about his integrity and his fighting spirit.

As deputy prime minister in the wartime coalition government, he directed Britain's whole fighting machine during Churchill's frequent absences from the country.

"When monopoly gets into the hands of a few men, then the only safe monopoly is a monopoly of the community," Attlee has declared.

He has promised political liberty for India "if they can achieve it for themselves" and he has declared for the closest possible relations with the United States and Russia.

Japan and reconstructing this war-torn nation under a program that calls for nationalization of much of its industry.

Britons had their first chance in 10 years to vote in a general election July 5 and they veered strongly to the left, defeating 27 members of Churchill's "caretaker" government but re-electing Churchill himself and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

While Eden will no longer be foreign minister, few changes in British policy are expected.

The British Press Association called Labor's victory "the most astonishing and significant of the century." There were many efforts to explain the upset, one of the most prominent being that Britons were tired of wartime restrictions and eager for a change.

Attlee served until June 15 as deputy prime minister in Churchill's wartime coalition government.

The 1935 general election—last until that held July 5, whose results were counted today—gave Labor 154 seats to 387 for the Conservatives. In the 1935 popular vote the Laborites received 8,325,000 to the Conservatives' 10,496,000.

The "Big Three" of Britain's Socialist-minded Labor Party were returned by heavy majorities. They are:

Maj. Attlee, who was deputy prime minister in the wartime coalition government.

Ernest Bevin, labor minister in the wartime coalition.

Herbert Morrison, home secretary in the coalition.

Labor Sweep Upsets Stocks

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Defeat of the Churchill government had an immediate effect on the Stock Exchange today with some shares dropping as much as 5 shillings (51).

Industrials and home rails were particularly sensitive. The Labor party had advocated nationalization of heavy industry.

NEW YORK, July 26 (INS)—Stocks lost $1 to $2 a share today as a result of the Laborite sweep in Britain.

Heavy selling appeared at the opening and prices continued to decline steadily in heavy volume.

Modern-Boston Plan Launched

A three-way program for modernization of Boston, including a huge underground garage to be operated by the city for public patrons, extension of the E's rapid transit service to the East Boston Airport and elimination of thousands of substandard housing units, was announced today by Mayor Kerrigan.

Declaring, "It is time for Boston to modernize," Kerrigan said he will soon send to the city council an order asking acceptance of the recently passed legislative act authorizing the rapid transit extension.

The Legislature empowered the city to issue $5,000,000 in bonds for that purpose, the money to be paid back from E.I. rentals.

"It will make Boston the only city in the country with an airport serviced by rapid transit," Kerrigan said. "For a 10-cent fare airport patrons will be able to make it back or forth in 20 minutes. Day labor will be employed for most of the work and at the peak of construction there should be employment for at least 1000 war veterans."

With regard to housing, the mayor said he would confer later in the day with Paul Clark, president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.; William

W. Drummy, chairman of the Boston Transit Commission, former state director of federal housing, and John Dobbs, regional director of the National Housing Administration.

"There are 42,000 substandard housing units in Boston," Kerrigan said, "and I shall try to eliminate as many as possible, so they may be replaced with private units with reasonable rentals. Our conference today is the forerunner of others to be held with officers of insurance companies."

The underground garage, he explained, is proposed to bring more business to Boston. "It is perfectly feasible," the mayor asserted. "The tagging of automobiles is driving business away from Boston. It is affecting business interests and the livelihood of business employees. We want more people to come here and we want no empty stores in Boston."

Kerrigan did not disclose whether he had a site for the garage in mind, but said it would be in the downtown area.

Meat Point Cuts to Run One to Two Per Pound

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—OPA, reporting definite improvement in meat supply and distribution, today announced reduction in red point values for almost all cuts of beef, lamb and veal, beginning Sunday. The agency estimated that for the August rationing period about 9.5 per cent more meat will be available for sale over retail counters than in July.

CRUTCHES—Just recovered from a strep throat attack, Janis Paige sprained her ankle while rehearsing dance steps and now limps around the studio on crutches.

Compared with June, when civilian supplies were at their lowest level, the increase will be about 11 per cent.

With one exception, the reductions amount to one to two points a pound. The reduction for boneless rump roasts is three points. Most steaks are cut two points.

Present point values of all cuts of pork, canned fish, fats and oils, and dairy products will remain unchanged. Creamery butter continues at 15 points.

Total meat supplies for the August rationing period were estimated at 221,110,000 pounds, compared with 212,190,000 pounds for the present period.

The estimate for beef is up 8,000,000 pounds, veal 2,280,000 pounds, lamb and mutton about 1,700,000. The pork supply, however, will be down about 3,270,000 pounds.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles said the improvement in civilian supplies was due largely to lower military purchases.

Here are the reductions in red point values:

Review for 436 Prisoners Seen

There are 436 prison inmates in Massachusetts eligible to ask the Appellate Division for reviews, with possible sentence reductions, J. Paul Doyle, Commissioner of Correction announced today.

Recent passage of a law which became effective July 20 makes the appeal possible.

While some sentences might be reduced, others might be increased.

HELD IN $3750 LARCENY

Charged with larceny of $3760 from a Devonshire st. attorney while posing as a volunteer worker in a war loan drive, James Tefft, 28, of Fuller st., Brookline, was held in $2000 bail for the grand jury trial in Municipal court.

WRONG RIGHTED—With the arrest of Alexander D. L. Thiel (above), one of the country's slickest forgers, there was joy again today at the New York home of Bertram M. Campbell, 57, former Wall St. broker, released after serving three years and four months in Sing Sing. Striking resemblance to the master forger brought faulty identification and conviction.

5 Red, 5 Blue Food Stamps Valid Aug. 1

WASHINGTON, July 26 (INS)—The Office of Price Administration announced today five red and five blue stamps, each worth 10 points, will be valid for the period Aug. 1 through Nov. 30.

Red stamps for meats, fats and oils are FI, GI, HI, JI and KI. Blue stamps for processed foods are PI, QI, RI, SI and TI.

Sugar stamp S3 in ration book four will continue valid for five pounds through Aug. 31.

Pinanski Honored For War Loan Drive

A testimonial dinner for Samuel Pinanski, national chairman for the 7th War Loan drive in the nation's theaters, was held in the Hotel Statler. He was presented with a plaque signed by theater employees.

"HOSTILE"—Red-haired Jeanette Welker is branded by the court as a "defiant" witness after she refused to give direct answers during the trial of four defendants charged with conspiring to murder Sen. Warren G. Hooper at Battle Creek, Mich.

Woman Dying, Youth Quizzed

While the life of Lila Cheever, 37, well-known Chandler st., South End, landlady, victim of a brutal beating in her own apartment, hung in the balance at City Hospital today, police picked up a 21-year-old youth whom they are holding as suspect.

Found unconscious in a chair with wreckage of furniture strewn about her, the elderly landlady suffered concussion, fractured jaw and nose, and numerous lacerations of the body.

Her assailant evidently believed she had money hidden in the apartment, ransacked everything that could have been a hiding place. Wallets torn open and scattered about the blood-spattered room led police to believe that he may have obtained several hundreds of dollars.

Several hours before the attack, a man had applied at the house for a room. Police are of the opinion that the prospective roomer returned after sizing up the surroundings.

She described her assailant to Lt. Harold Mitten as about 21 years old.

Change Hyde Sq. Name to Honor Vets

An order changing the name of the Hyde sq. traffic circle, Jamaica Plain, to Veterans' Memorial Circle, was signed today by Mayor Kerrigan in the presence of a delegation from the Hyde Square Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at City Hall.

A flagstaff and a bronze tablet bearing the names of men in that locality who died in military service, are to be erected, the VFW representative said. They were Post Comdr. Joseph M. Weidmann, Adj. Michael Haverly and Trustee William J. O'Reilly.

RIES FOR DROWNED BOY—Funeral services were being planned today for James Quinn, Jr., 7, whose body was found floating near the State Pier. He was the son of S. C. James Quinn.

Kerrigan Prods Tardy City Help

Mayor Kerrigan today ordered department heads at City Hall to cease rolling over for another snooze in the morning and be at their desks by 9 a. m. on the dot.

The mayor said he had found many of the department chiefs "not available" to transact city business at that hour, when they are supposed to be toiling ardently for the taxpayers. He said:

"Department heads are paid substantial salaries, for which they accept full responsibility for the operation of the various divisions of city government. Further neglect of their duties will not be tolerated. If stenographers, clerks and other workers can be at their desks at 9 o'clock, department heads can be there at the same time."

The mayor gets to work at 8:15 frequently.

Grappling Irons, Surfboat Join Hunt for Judy

Search for the body of 2-year-old Judy Geagan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Geagan of Medford, who disappeared from her parents' summer cottage at Marshfield 10 days ago, continued at the beach today.

State troopers, Marshfield police and Coast Guardsmen are combing the shore area during low tide with every means possible. A motor surfboat with grappling equipment is searching among rocks offshore, while a Coast Guard jeep is kept patrolling 24 hours a day on an eight-mile stretch of sand from Fourth Cliff to Brant Rock, operating on the theory that bodies usually float after seven days in the water. Chief Bosun's Mate Daniel Dewey is directing the search.

The amphibious "Duck," which was laid up for repairs yesterday, now has a new battery and has resumed the search farther out to sea. Acting Police Chief Clifford Vallier of Marshfield said the hunt would be carried on relentlessly despite the possibility the body might never be found.

GI's Masquerade Bridal Revealed

DENVER, July 26 (AP)—Army authorities at Buckley Field held a 22-year-old Spokane, Wash. private who, Maj. William T. Bennett, provost marshal, said, masqueraded as a flight officer and, using the officer's name, married a teen age girl four days after he met her.

Bennett said the soldier, Pvt. Michael Povey, went AWOL July 2 after taking a billfold containing identification papers from Flight Officer Howard J. Rothfus of Woodward, Ia., and clothing from another officer.

Posing as Rothfus, said the provost marshal, Povey went to Ft. Collins, Colo., July 15, met Donna Jean Knuffke of San Francisco and married her July 19 with her mother's consent. Bennett said the soldier took out a marriage license in the officer's name.

The "tipoff," said Bennett, came yesterday when the real Rothfus received a letter from a Laporte, Col. woman, asking why he had not repaid $30 which she had lent the officer—presumably Povey—at Estes Park a few days before the marriage.

N. Y. GIEL SOUGHT IN HUB

Vandalism Bares Girl Case Arrest

Frank H. Ward, 28, of Prospect st., Charlestown, assistant custodian of the Dearborn School, Ambrose st., Roxbury, where young vandals caused damage of $4000 Monday, pleaded not guilty in Roxbury district court Tuesday to indecent assault on an eight-year-old girl of the neighborhood, it was disclosed today.

Ward was released under bail

NEW YORK, July 26 (INS)

—Joe Krutzel, elevator operator in an apartment house, searched through rubbish for several hours to find two lost envelopes.

The envelopes contained two checks for a total of $114,000. The owner rewarded Joe with a tip of 15 cents.

of $500 for a hearing tomorrow. The assault was alleged to have occurred Monday.

Police have been questioning 10 Roxbury boys trying to learn the motive behind the vandalism, which veteran school officials said was the worst in their memory.

CO Captains Get Flag Rank

Three Coast Guard veterans from Massachusetts, whose combined years of service total 101, have been promoted from captain to flag rank, one to rear admiral, two to commodores, the Coast Guard announced today.

Capt. William Francis Towle of Lowell, with 39 years of duty, was made rear admiral. He is serving as district Coast Guard officer in Long Beach, Cal.

Capt. Beckwith Jordan of Brookline was promoted to commodore after 23 years of service. He is district Coast Guard officer in St. Louis. He was twice commended in prohibition days for his activities against rum runners.

Capt. Michael J. Ryan of North Bellingham, district Coast Guard officer in Charleston, S. C., was also made a commodore. He has been in the service 39 years.

YOU"...

Below is an unsolicited letter from a service man somewhere in the war zones that speaks for itself.

Gentlemen:

In over three years' foreign service, most of which has been under adverse conditions, I have tried many kinds of shaving cream in order to give my tough beard the best treatment possible.

Allow me to congratulate you on your 061 Lavender Shaving Cream, which has consistently—whether with hot, tepid or cold water—given me the benefit of smooth penetrating lather.

Please ship me three tubes of the above mentioned cream as soon as possible.

Yours very truly
signed—L. H. Jr.

Thanks, Sergeant, for your compliment and that you took time out from duty to express it. The Shaving Cream is on the way and we hope next time you need to stock up, you'll be dropping in personally to do so.

P.S. Folks the shaving cream mentioned above is a jumbo size at 23c, typical of hundreds of money saving items that have made our Filene Basement toiletries section famous. Our following of males (taking a tip from thousands of thrifty females) is on the increase every day and if you come in Evelyn Merrifield, Margaret Clark, Hazel Fallon, Elaine Trenish and many other attractive salespeople will gladly cater to your every wish with a smile!

Truman Pledges Troops Kind of U. S. They Want

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
FRANKFURT-ON-THE-MAIN,
July 26 (AP)—President Truman, reviewing troops in this area,
told men of the 84th Infantry Division today that he hoped they would come home to a United States that was "as you like it want it to be."

The President arrived at the Eschborn Army Airport shortly after 9:30 a. m. after a 268-mile, 90-minute flight from Potsdam, and began a round of inspections with a review of an honor guard made up from the 508th Parachute Troop Regiment of the 82nd Airborne Division.

In a two-hour visit with the 84th Infantry and Third Armored Division he expressed delight at getting to see American soldiers.
"You have fought so that we can live, thin and act as we like," he said.

The President took off by plane at 4:17 p. m. after a first hand view of the American occupation zone.

Speaking on a roadside near Weinheim, Truman said he was "glad to get a chance to look at good American soldiers." One of his regrets, he added, was that in this war he was not allowed to wear a uniform, "although I tried hard enough."

The President promised he would try to implement the principles of President Roosevelt, in a program permitting all men to think and act as they like.

The President's tour, a brief holiday from the Big Three conferences at Potsdam, covered dozens of towns surrounding Frankfurt.

In good spirits, he said he was
"feeling fine."

187 Million Eggs Set N. E. Record for June

If there's an egg shortage in New England this summer it isn't the fault of the hens. They laid 187,000,000 eggs on New England farms during June, two per cent above the record high set in June last year.

The N. E. Federal Crop Reporting Service said today: the number of layers averaged 10-897,000 birds last month, declining seasonally from the May average of 11,396,000 birds and three per cent less than the number on farms in June, 1944.

Tattooing of Nudes On Boys Ruled Assault

ELKHART, Ind., July 26 (AP)
—The Elkhart city court held that nude female figures tattooed on the forearms of 18 boys, aged 12 to 16, constituted assault and battery.

The tattoo artist, Jesse O'Ban-ion, 53, was fined $35 and sentenced to 60 days on the state penal farm after Prosecutor D.
Russell Bontrager charged that tattooing permanent marks on a minor without the parent's consent was the equivalent of assault.

CURB BERLIN NIGHT LIFE.
BERLIN, July 26 (AP)—Military government authorities are going to curb night life in the American zone of Berlin to prevent any trend toward "promiscuity and perversion" which might develop among the city's demoralized people.

August Tire Quota No Aid to 'A' Cards

WASHINGTON, July 26 (INS)—WPB and OPA announced that 2,500,000 passenger car and 386,862 small truck tires will be released to civilians under rationing in August.

The August quota is exactly the same as that for July. The quota for truck tires of sizes 8.25 and larger, however, has been cut from 234,308 in July to 200,000 for August.

OPA said the August passenger tire total was maintained at the July rate to answer heavy summer tire demands although tire production will be about half a million tires below the 2,500,000 quota.

To make up the difference, it was explained, 500,000 tires had to be taken out of low inventories. About 420,000 applications for passenger car tires, approved in June, are unfilled as the August ration period begins.

OPA chief, Max McCullough, said that these facts indicate that it will be "a long time before new tires can be granted to 'A' book holders."

Ring Lardner, Jr., Sued for Divorce

LOS ANGELES, July 26 (AP)—Ring Lardner, Jr., film writer and son of the late humorist, was sued for divorce yesterday by the former Sylvia Schulman, who charged mental cruelty.

She asked custody of their children, Peter, 6, and Barbara, 5. Under a property settlement, Lardner will pay her 50 per cent of his gross income, maintain $30,000 in insurance, naming her as beneficiary, and give her the family home and about $4000 in war bonds. They were married in 1937.

Woman, 108, Waits End of Japanese War

ADAMS, July 26—Miss Margaret Wilson began her 109th year today hoping that she'll live long enough to see the end of the war with Japan. She attributes her longevity to a good appetite, asserting, "I eat what I want when I want it."

In comparatively good health, with fine hearing and eyesight, she spent her birthday quietly with relatives. A native of Ireland and a resident of Adams since childhood, Miss Wilson was the youngest of 13 children.

AWOL With Truck, Texas GI Lands Here, Held in $500

Pvt. Stanley R. Estes, USA, of Pecos, Tex., who says the Pecos draft board chucked him into the Army because it disbelieved he was only 16, arrived here in federal custody today after Whitman police stopped him in that town while he was driving a two-ton tractor truck.

Arraigned before U. S. Comm. Martin T. Hall, Estes pleaded not guilty to interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

He was held in bail of $500 for federal court.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Alfred G. Malagodi said the youth had served one month in the Army and had been AWOL one month. Malagodi added the truck was the property of the Nu-Way Products Co., Little Rock, Ark.

Estes told the commissioner he had driven it here for four days. His purpose, he said, was to visit his mother, visiting in Arlington.

There had been enough gas coupons in the truck to make the journey, he explained. But his mother had left and the trip was for naught.

War Fund Drive Leaders Named

Financial division campaign leaders for the October Greater Boston United War Fund drive were announced today by O. Kelley Anderson, division chairman, president of the Consolidated Investment Trust Co.

Francis G. Shepard of the State Street Trust Co., Robert A. Whidden, president, Rand Avery-Gordon Taylor, Inc., and Philip M. Stearns of Estabrook & Co., are division vice-chairmen.

Group chairmen are William Bayne of F. S. Moseley & Co., in charge of the banking group; Arthur D. Cronin of Kaler, Carney, Liffier & Co. of the insurance group; Ralph J. Waite of Miehle Printing Press and Manufacturing Co., of the graphic arts group, and Parker Webb of the real estate group.

Moose Roams Portland Streets

PORTLAND, Me., July (26)—A giant cow moose paid a visit to Portland's city streets today and the high school stadium resembled a rodeo before the stranger fell victim to the lassoing of game wardens and police.

The moose was estimated to be a three-year-old weighing more than 500 pounds.

First sighted near the Maine General Hospital on the western promenade, the animal maneuvered through a heavily-populated residential section to the stadium.

For two hours and a half Game Wardens Maynard Marsh and Wilbur Hoyt were led a merry chase. The huge beast finally became exhausted and was captured under the bleachers. It was taken to the state game preserve at Standish.

Railroads Get 3 Mo. Freight Rate Stay

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today granted the nation's railroads an additional three months in which to make effective temporary freight rate adjustments ordered in ICC's May 15 freight rate decision.

The carriers had petitioned the commission to extend the date from Aug. 30 to April 1, 1946. This was denied. Instead the commission allowed the carriers until Nov. 30 to carry out the order.

Buckley Weighs State Job Offer

Nominated by Gov. Tobin to be state commissioner of administration and finance, former State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley of North Abington today declined to say whether he would accept the $7000 job. As deputy collector of internal revenue for Boston he enjoys Civil Service protection.

Buckley was one of three major appointments made by the Governor at Wednesday's executive council meeting. Action was put over until the next council session, Aug. 8.

The present commissioner, Paul W. Foster of Great Barrington, is expected to retire on a $3500 annual pension.

State Speeds Plans To Pay Vets' Bonus

Within 24 hours after the $100 soldiers' bonus became law, World War II veterans today besieged State Treasurer John E. Hurley with applications.

Hurley announced an organization for distributing the bonus was being set up but was not yet ready to receive applications. He said the necessary forms would be available within a week, and plans were under way to provide special officers in the State House.

Hurley said the law required that a veteran, to be eligible for a bonus, must have been a resident of the Commonwealth for at least six months prior to entry into the service. The enlistment, induction or commission must have been credited to the State's draft quota.

Michigan Prison Warden Ousted

LANSING, Mich., July 26 (INS)—Warden Harry H. Jackson of Jackson Prison and his two chief deputies and four aides were removed from office today, charged with responsibility for maladministration, graft and vice conditions within the institution.

The Michigan Correction Committee ordered immediate suspension of the men upon recommendation of Atty.-Gen. John Dethmers, who declared their removal was necessary to correct the "maladourous conditions" in the prison—largest in the United States.

Lindbergh Sees Empty Victory

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—Our soldiers have been victorious in arms in Europe, says Charles A. Lindbergh, but "we have not established peace or liberty" there and many "so-called liberated nations have simply exchanged the Nazi form of dictatorship for the Communist form."

"There is less security there now than ever before, and less democracy," the noted flier, who recently returned from a research trip to Europe, was quoted by the Chicago Tribune today.

"TO LIVE TOGETHER IN PEACE WITH ONE ANOTHER AS GOOD NEIGHBORS"

REPRESENTATIVES of fifty countries met at San Francisco and drafted The Charter Of The United Nations—"to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war." This document is not magical. It does provide opportunity for all peoples, by their attitudes and contributions, to aid in making it succeed.

We work hard to wage war. The price of peace, too, is vigilance and labor.

Fortunately, for the arduous task of improving human relationships, the airplane has already revolutionized the effective nearness of nations. The spearhead of our new era is international air transportation.

An obligation is imposed upon the people and organizations which have the privilege of engaging in international commerce under the flag of their country. They enjoy a direct and more frequent opportunity of acquaintanceship and understanding with the people of other countries and can lead in promoting the enduring principles of The Charter.

The government of the United States has given the American Airlines System the privilege of engaging in overseas commerce. Thus it becomes one of the principal "American Flag" lines in international air transportation.

We are aware of the responsibility on behalf of this nation which goes with this assignment and we shall fulfill that responsibility with diligence and sincerity.

Churchill Britain's Hope in Dark Days

By HELEN CAMP

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill, the man who guided Britain through the darkest days of the war, stuck close to No. 10 Downing Street today as returns from Britain's July 5 general election showed he had lost political leadership of the nation.

His own constituency, Woodford, re-elected him to Parliament and Mrs. Churchill heard her husband counted in.

"It will be my husband's duty and pleasure to serve you again in Parliament," Mrs. Churchill said to a crowd at the town council office. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mary.

Soldier, war correspondent, historian and world statesman, Churchill won his first seat in Parliament in 1900. He was undersecretary of colonies, 1906-08; president of the Board of Trade, 1908-10; home secretary, 1910-11; First Lord of the Admiralty, 1911-15; a soldier on the Western Front, 1916; minister of munitions, 1917; secretary for war and air, 1918-21; secretary for colonies, 1921-22, and chancellor of the exchequer, 1924-29.

In the second World War he scaled the heights, regaining his old post as First Lord of the Admiralty, which he resigned in World War I after the Gallipoli debacle.

He succeeded Neville Chamberlain as Prime Minister on May 10, 1940, the day Germany invaded France and the Low Countries.

Facing Commons for the first time as Prime Minister, Churchill made this classic promise:

"I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, sweat and tears."

He was a symbol of British determination.

On June 4, as the last exhausted remnants of the British Army landed in England from

2 Dead Men Win

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Two dead men were elected to the House of Commons in returns counted today. Both were Conservatives.

They were Leslie Pym and Sir Edward Campbell, both of whom died July 17, a dozen days after the ballots were cast.

Both elections will be accepted formally in Parliament and the seats will be declared vacant and new elections will be ordered.

Dunkirk's beaches, Churchill declared:

"We shall defend our island whatever the cost may be. We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills; we shall never surrender."

Before and after the entrance of the United States into the war, Churchill lightened Britain's bonds with America through personal visits with the late President Roosevelt.

Churchill was born Nov. 30, 1874, at Blenheim Castle, Woodstock, Oxfordshire. Although he liked to recall that his mother was an American—she was the former Jennie Jerome of New York—he always thought of himself first as a Briton and a leader of the British people. At one crisis he said:

"I did not become the King's first minister to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire."

labor and conservative parties on foreign policy, as shown by Attlee's willingness to accompany Churchill to Potsdam. The laborites did challenge Britain's position in Greece.

The question of who will be chosen Eden's successor as foreign secretary remained undetermined, but speculation has centered around three names in this order: Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Mr. Dalton, and Mr. Morrison.

Each served in the coalition cabinet, Mr. Eden as labor minister, Dalton as president of the board of trade and Morrison as home secretary.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Questions regarding the wearing of the uniform following discharge have resulted in the issuance of a joint statement by all branches of the armed forces. Here is published the text of a statement sent to the Veterans' Friend Editor from Washington:

"The Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Marine Corps public relations offices announce that all discharged personnel may wear their uniforms only from the point of discharge to their homes, but in no event longer than three months.

"Shore patrols and military police have been advised, however, that too strict enforcement is not necessary at this time and to allow veterans a reasonable time after arrival home to acquire civilian clothes. This period may vary according to individual and local conditions.

"Wearing of the uniform on ceremonial occasions of patriotic nature, after the veteran has again become a civilian, is governed by federal law and not by regulations of the armed forces.

"These ceremonies include the usual public activities sponsored by patriotic groups on Memorial Day, Flag Day, Fourth of July, Army and Navy Days, military funerals, receptions and parades, and other ceremonies for persons of prominence and any occasion yet to be determined as the result of the present war.

"However, when Army and Marine Corps Veterans wear their uniforms on such occasions, they must show the new Discharge Patch at a point one inch above the center of the top seam of the right breast pocket. The patch is an embroidered design of the discharge button. Navy and Coast Guard veterans must wear either the Discharge Button or the Honorable Service Button.

"The rules apply to both men and women. In all cases, veterans may legally retain and use with their names, the highest ratings, ranks or titles which they attained in service."

Q—My husband has served overseas for one year, and since being wounded has been given Class 3B-322114K. Can you tell me if that class is returning to States or staying for occupation?

M. M., Dorchester

A—Some are staying for occupation duty while others are going to be returned to the U. S. Don't know when they are scheduled for shipment. On other pages of this newspaper you will find the daily departures of units from the European theater.

Q—How much can a widow get without losing her pension—that is, the pension granted by Congress last December? I have a minor child.

M. R., Boston

A—A widow with one or more children can earn up to $600 annually. Without minor children, the amount is $400.

Q—My husband received a medical discharge from the Coast Guard in October, 1944. Recently we purchased a home under G. I. Bill loan benefits. He has now decided to return to the service. Will he lose his G. I. rights to home if he does?

J. L. M., South Eastern

A—He won't lose rights unless he is unable to continue payments for home under terms of sale. Would think that if it goes to be hard to keep up home if he re-enters service.

Q—My son is with the 7th Army, Battery A, 888 F. A. They were to stay in Europe on occupation duty, but recently he wrote that his unit received orders that they were going to the Pacific. Could you tell me if they are expected back in the United States?

W. W., Superior, Ill.

A—Sorry, but I cannot answer your question. Most of the troops from the ETO in the Pacific combat duty in the Pacific is restricted. If he is going to Pacific via U. S., the only announcement it will be made when his unit sails from France or England. You are advised to watch news broadcasts from Europe and arrive in U. S.

Q—My son was killed in action and he had named his wife as beneficiary for his insurance and said he had named me as contingent. But so far all payments have been made to her. What am I entitled to? L. E., West Roxbury.

A—A contingent beneficiary receives any amount of National Service Life Insurance payments due when the principal beneficiary (in this case your son's widow) does not live to receive the full amount.

Homecomings

Listings of AEF outfits sailing from European bases and arriving in U. S. ports are published virtually every day on another page of this newspaper under the heading, "The Boys Come Home." Watch for these reports daily. Answers to many questions submitted to the Veterans' Friend Editor will be found in that column.

Shangri-La Diary

By CPL. MARGARET HASTINGS, WAC

Written Exclusively for International News Special Service (World Copyright and All Rights Reserved)

OWEGO, N. Y., July 26 (INS)—Sometime during the night Eleanor had died peacefully, quietly and without pain. She died on an alien mountain side, halfway across the world from her home. There she is buried to-day in the jungle, beneath a white cross with her dog tags looped over it.

But we four who survived on the mountain that first day after the crash could not even perform the last simple act of burial for her. We had nothing but an ordinary pocket knife and our nails with which to scratch a grave in the jungle. McCollom wrapped her carefully in a tarpaulin and laid her by the side of a tree. That was all we could do.

We did not talk and we could not weep.

"I can't stop shaking," said Laura. Then Sgt. Kenneth Decker and I suddenly realized that since the plane crash, we, too, had been shaking uncontrollably.

For breakfast we each had a sip of water, a vitamin pill, and a few pieces of hard candy. McCollom started back to the plane, which had burned all night, to see what else he could salvage. Decker stumbled along to help.

From the undamaged tail section McCollom salvaged two coats, carried them back, and made Laura lie down on one. Still hysterical, she was in no pain and none of us dreamed she was badly injured.

I asked if Laura would loan me her shoes while she rested. I was having difficulty walking even a few steps in that awful jungle growth in my shoeless, bandaged feet. Of course she let me have them.

During the morning I discovered that my legs were burned in a wide bracelet—varying from three to six inches—around each calf. But my legs and my blistered face still did not pain me.

Eventually, McCollom and Decker came back from the plane with a heavy cotton flying suit and they made Laura put it on.

In all, the men had saved a good bit of hard candy, two more large, bright yellow tarps and one small one, first aid kits and 17 small cans of water, holding about a cup each.

McCollom would only let us have a sip of that little hoard of water at a time.

Now we sat down and discussed our situation. McCollom had sighted a clearing or small valley, down the mountainside, and it was agreed we would spend the rest of this day and night on the peak, trying to recover from the shock. Then, in the morning, we would start down the mountain.

Thinking Laura was only hysterical, we told her she must pull herself together for the journey.

Secretly, I wondered if—without shoes—I could keep up with the others and I

BESIDES Margaret Hastings, only two other WACs and two soldiers survived the flaming wreck of an Army transport plane carrying 24 persons that crashed May 13 on a sightseeing trip over Hidden Valley, New Guinea. Injuries of the other two girls were thought comparatively light and it was a stunning shock when Lt. John McCollom, ministering to one of them, said "Eleanor's dead." The story continues.

would have to give Laura's shoes back to her.

I was frightened that I would never be able to make it through the jungle in feet covered only by half sox and a layer of cotton bandage.

We talked about our families and wondered when they would be notified that we were missing. That upset us more than anything. I dreaded to think how my 68-year-old father, Patrick Hastings, would react to the news that I was missing.

For the first time since my mother died six years ago, I was reconciled to her death. I kept thinking that at least she would be spared this terrible anxiety.

We knew that by this time the Army would be searching for us. I think we all listened subconsciously for the sound of motors.

The first plane did come over that morning between 11 o'clock and noon. (Decker's watch had survived the crash, so we knew the time.) McCollom grabbed the mirror from the signaling kit and worked it frantically.

They did not see us, but it made us feel a thousand times better just to know they were looking for us.

As usual, the mist and the rain began to close in on the mountain in mid-afternoon. We were all exhausted and so cold. There was nothing to do but go to bed about 3 o'clock.

I crawled onto the narrow cot with Laura and pulled a tarp over us. We had to cling to each other to stay on the cot.

Laura was terribly restless. Before McCollom stretched out, he came over and gave her a little morphine. "He wanted her to sleep and rest for tomorrow's journey down the mountain.

"Everyone else is dead and we're very lonely, aren't we?" she asked, as McCollom tucked the tarp around her.

Nothing, not even the morphine, quieted her. I was tortured with fatigue and my eyes seemed on fire. But I could not sleep.

I would doze, then Laura would stir and I would be wide awake. And the cold rain came down steadily.

I dozed a minute. And when I came to again, Laura was terribly quiet. So quiet it frightened me! I was scared, but I put my hand on her chest. She wasn't breathing. The pulse in her throat was still.

I screamed for McCollom. "Please, McCollom, please come! Laura has died!"

"Don't be a dope, Hastings! She's all right!" called Sgt. Decker. Like McCollom and myself, he had never dreamed that Laura was mortally hurt.

But McCollom came over to the cot. He felt her hands and her pulse.

He didn't say a word. He just lifted her off the cot, got a tarpaulin and wrapped her in it. Then he carried her over by the tree and laid her down beside Eleanor.

I ought to have cried. I ought to have felt some kind of terrible grief for this dear friend. But all I could do was sit on the cot and shake. I couldn't even think that Laura was dead. I just sat there and shook and all I could think was:

"Now the shoes belong to me!"

Within 24 hours, life had become so elemental, so stripped of everything but a will

CPL. MARGARET HASTINGS, WAC
"And Then a Miracle Happened" to live that a pair of shoes seemed the most important thing in the world.

It was weeks before I could cry for Laura and Eleanor and our friends in the plane. McCollom came back. He lighted a cigaret and gave me one. Then he sat down on the cot and stayed with me till it was light. We never said a word. From time to time he would give me a cigaret. No night will ever again be as long as this one.

When daylight came, McCollom said we must get ready to start down the mountain. We still had two big tarpaulins left and a small one.

He wrapped most of the emergency rations, water and two flashlights in a big pack that he carried. He made a smaller one for Decker.

He gave me only a small pail, the kind you use to bail out a life raft. It held the day's rations—two cans of water and a handful of hard candy. A tin cup swung from my belt.

McCollom had taken the flying suit from Laura. Now he made me put it on to protect my burned legs. But first he had to take his pocket knife and hack 12 inches off the bottom of the trousers.

I found a use for my step-ins, too. I tore them in two and tried to bandage my legs. My legs were awfully stiff by this time, but they still did not pain me as we think a burn should.

It was probably the altitude—9000 feet—but it seemed to take us so long to do anything. Finally we were ready to leave. There ought to have been something dramatic about that leave-taking. Maybe we should have said some prayers, or stood silently for a minute or built a cross.

But McCollom said "Let's go!" and we followed him. McCollom, who thought of everything, had saved a compass from the life rafts. Now he led us past the plane through almost impenetrable jungle. It took 30 minutes to work our way back to the plane and just 25 yards beyond it.

Then, a miracle happened. Only a miracle had saved us alive from that plane. Only a miracle brought us down the mountain. That miracle was a little gully.

We stumbled into it suddenly in the jungle, 25 yards beyond the wreckage. That gully and the little stream it led to was our margin of safety.

The jungle was so thick, so impenetrable that I did not think any of us could get through it alive. We had no machete, nothing with which to hack and fight it but McCollom's dollar pocket knife.

As a matter of fact, that was the only weapon we had. No one wore side arms the Sunday we started on our flight for Hidden Valley.

Now, armed with a pocket knife, we set out to face the jungle and whatever it might conceal in the way of savage growth, animals and natives.

WHY SOLDIERS SUFFER

PRELIMINARY INQUIRY by Mead Committee of the United States Senate—which has begun a thorough investigation of the troop transportation scandal—indicates that many of the hardships and indignities inflicted upon American soldiers in transit in this country would have been averted if there had been more competence at Washington and less doctrinaire antagonism in the Federal Government of the railroads as outstanding institutions of our system of free enterprise.

Several days ago the Mead Committee—which is the war investigating committee previously headed by President Truman—issued a statement, saying:

"Investigations to date reveal that there was LITTLE LONG-RANGE PLANNING with respect to deployment, particularly the REDEPLOYMENT of troops.

"Government agencies VITALLY INTERESTED IN THE ENTIRE QUESTION were generally NOT CONSULTED and were apparently EVEN IN IGNORANCE of some of the plans made by the Army."

As a consequence, troop landings and troop movements have had to be treated as sudden emergencies by the railroads, using whatever equipment there was that could be hastily requisitioned.

As a measure of the almost insurmountable difficulties needlessly created, Senator Mead reports that on at least one occasion THE ARMY LANDED 100,000 MORE MEN THAN THE OFFICE OF DEFENSE TRANSPORTATION HAD BEEN NOTIFIED TO EXPECT.

FURTHERMORE, the government has persisted in a perverted policy of not permitting the railroads and the Pullman Company to INCREASE THEIR PEACETIME EQUIPMENT TO MEET THE REQUIREMENTS OF WAR.

In a letter to the Senate, Mr. John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, discloses that the Government had "more than once" REFUSED to let the lines have the material necessary to BUILD additional passenger cars.

Mr. Pelley commented:

"All of us deeply regret that the needs of the war convinced those in the government who had FINAL AUTHORITY to determine the question that it was NOT DESIRABLE to permit the railroads to SECURE THE EQUIPMENT needed to handle in this emergency the demands of traffic, BOTH CIVILIAN AND MILITARY, according to the normal peacetime standards of the railroads of this country."

Mr. Pelley has informed the Senate that the total volume of passenger travel on the railroads this year "probably will be close to FIVE TIMES that of prewar years, but it is to be carried in virtually THE SAME NUMBER OF COACHES AND SLEEPING CARS WHICH WERE THEN AVAILABLE."

Senator Kilgore of West Virginia, a member of the Mead Committee, confirms that, because the Army had not kept the Office of Defense Transportation INFORMED as to troop movements, "the transportation plans COULD NOT BE MADE."

"Only now," Senator Kilgore said, is the "necessary information" being extended, enabling the Office of Defense Transportation and the railroads to adjust meager facilities to an unprecedented situation.

IN VIEW of the government's blunders in policy and in action, the railroads and the Pullman Company are surely not to be criticized for privations endured by servicemen in travel.

THE WONDER IS THAT, UNDER THE OBSTACLES IMPOSED UPON THEM, THEY HAVE BEEN ABLE TO DO THEIR MAMMOTH JOB AT ALL.

Moreover, the nation has had an awakening illustration of what will happen to American progress if COMMUNISM should supplant FREE ENTERPRISE in this country and "the government" should try to "run" everything in the same manner that it has hampered and hindered the railroads.

THE 28TH MARINES, 5th Marine Division, now in the South Pacific area, recently held a different "pin-up girl" contest. It was styled "a pin-up contest of the girls you left behind." In this contest the Marines entered the photos of their sweethearts or wives at home. More than 300 pictures were entered. The winner was Evelyn Gilman of Los Angeles. Evelyn is a brown-eyed honey-blond. It can't be denied those brown-eyed blondes usually have what it takes to win pin-up contests. Wonder what kind of wives they make? I shall have our Horses & Women Department investigate this angle. So, young fellas, don't marry a brown-eyed honey blonde until you get our H & W Department's report.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:
Q—Why is it all Brooklynites hate cats? A—Where did you get that idea? Sounds to me like the result of some nasty propaganda spread by foreign agents from the Bronx. Brooklynites are as fond of cats as of dogs. It is a matter of record that Mrs. Muriel Shaffer, a Brooklyn school teacher, went through a manhole and down 10 feet into a sewer to rescue a drowning cat. . . . Q—Are you familiar with a song titled "Down in the Old Neighborhood"? A—Never heard of it. . . . Q—Do you like Western films? A—Certainly do. Mystery melodramas and Westerns are my favorites. Best Western I have seen recently is "Tall in the Saddle."

SIDELIGHTS: When a person yawns it is not always a sign of boredom. Excitement can make you yawn. So states a scientist. Keep that in mind, young lady. If the fellow is yawn, you cut loose with a yawn and immediately conclude he is bored. He may be excited. In fact, he could be as romantic as Charles Boyer. . . .

Charles Boyer

Am asked what is the married name of Dorothy Thompson, the journalist. It is Mrs. Maxim Kopf. Dorothy, though a serious writer, is quite a genial person socially. The only time she really loses her temper is when she sees herself referred to as "The Buxton Columnist."

PASSING BY: Angela Lansbury, Brilliant young Hollywoodian. Played the maid in "Gaslight."

Angela Lansbury

Also featured in "The Picture of Dorian Gray." Angela is an English girl who came to the United States in 1941 as a girl evacuee. Some London critics are already referring to her as "The British Jean Harlow."

EXPECTANT PAPAS: Washington, D. C., also has a school for expectant fathers which awards graduates the degree of "prepared father." The graduates have organized an alumni association. Regular meetings are held at which the proper way to bring up children is the principal subject discussed. The wives of these men are said to be viewing the situation with alarm. When a child is in its infancy the assistance of the father in caring for it is appreciated. However, when the youngster reaches four or five years, mama is very likely to find papa's suggestions as to child rearing a little irritating.

SETTLED: We wish to remove Argument No. 188998765 from our books, namely, "Is Field Marshal Montgomery an Englishman or an Irishman?" In a recent speech at Clones, County Monaghan, Ireland, Lady Montgomery, the field marshal's mother, said in part: "The Irish are all great fighters; my son is Irish. If the Irish are not fighting an enemy, they are fighting among themselves."

PLEASE NOTE: England has a racers' association. This recently organized group is composed of turf fans who are determined to see that customers at tracks get a fair break. Also, the R. A. will battle for honestly run races and do everything possible to make the owners, trainers and jockeys behave. A great idea. The turf fans of the USA should start a similar organization. Around the tracks in certain sections of the country the gamblers run wild. Officials at some courses are so careless they even permit bookmakers to operate racing stables.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, July 26—The mere fact that a few bureaucrats, through perversity and for reasons of policy, defend the commissioning of Communists in various branches of the armed forces by denying that they are Communists should not abate the efforts of more forthright men in Congress to tag these individuals.

Westbrook Pegler

The War Department changed policy while President Roosevelt still alive and his wife was wielding an influence which now, fortunately, seems to be waning. Had Mr. Truman been President at the time that the Army yielded to political pressure and abandoned its old prudent attitude toward declared and demonstrated enemies of the American form of government, this change would not have been made.

Mr. Truman, within three months, has shown his preference for loyal Americans and his abhorrence of further schemers who mocked every precept of Americanism.

It follows that if he had been in the White House when the issue was raised, the Army would have been allowed to obey its natural instincts.

The decision to the contrary was a policy dictated from without and above the service and Henry Stimson and Robert Patterson, his undersecretary, nowadays are saving face in quibbling over tests of disloyalty.

MR. PATTERSON spoke in the tongue of a guard house lawyer arguing the ancient issue of how drunk is drunk when he said the other day that all he knew about the so-called Abraham Lincoln Brigade, of the Spanish Communist revolutionary army, was that "some in this brigade fought and died on the field of battle."

If that is all he knows about the Abraham Lincoln Brigade he ought to resign and, failing that, Mr. Truman ought to fire him for dangerous stupidity.

Obviously he is not that dumb, however, so it follows that he knows the testimony elicited by a Congressional committee which proved beyond the doubt of any honest man that this was a Communist enterprise organized by New York Communists.

The dishonesty of the test by which the Army has discovered loyalty in disloyal men is too flagrant to be overlooked, whatever one may think of the importance of the issue under discussion. If the War Department is as dishonest as that in one matter it will be no more honest in others in which the risks are greater.

ANOTHER OCCASION, minute to be sure, but indicative of the pollution of the Army with politics, occurred last winter when an officer who should have been court-martialed for writing a top priority for the flight of Elliott Roosevelt's dog, was not even named to Congress or the public.

The War Department's statement on the commissioning of Communists accepted as proof of loyalty to the United States the mere fact that individuals served in the American uniform during a time when Stalin was at war with Hitler, when every Communist had a political duty to Moscow to fight Hitler wherever he could.

We have not suffered, nor do our Communists and scuttie-but liberals protest, because we have distrusted men who were suspected, however unjustly, of partiality to Fascism.

The same people who decry discrimination against covert Communists raised no protest in behalf of Charles Lindbergh, but on the contrary, damned him because he said the Germans had a great air force and the Russians a bad one, which was just what our general staff thought, too.

And they blamed Ham Fish at the stake because he was accused of traffic with Americans who rather liked Nazism as an alternative to the Russian version of the same terror.

Yet, by the station of this political element among us, the War Department now satisfies itself that men who gave counsel and aid and comfort to another alien "man" become loyal Americans when they took the oath so often mocked before.

IT WILL BE noted, incidentally, that the suspect persons whose loyalty would need no defensive propaganda had they not a reason for doubt, are partial to the non-Communist, political and conspiratorial branches of the service.

They gravitate to the editorial staffs of the service publications, to detached duty with the OWI where the work is safe and sedentary and Communism is sometimes disguised as democracy, which is not the American form of government, anyway, and to the political firms in conquered countries where they can collaborate with natives whose earlier treacheries gave rise to Fascism and the scourge of the second World War.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 26—With fall approaching, John Garfield is undergoing his annual yen to return to Broadway and a play—and I must say he has a good bet in sight. John will co-produce and star in "Danny Boy," by Philip Yordan, who wrote "Anna Lucasta," with Yordan forming the other half of the producing team.

If "Danny Boy" is as good as "Anna," it will keep the ticket scalpers in clover for the next season. PRG has announced a movie, titled, "Danny Boy" but Yordan's attorney has notified Leon Krimm, head of the studio, that Yordan has a prior claim to the title. The team of Garfield and Yordan will, themselves, make a film of "Danny Boy" after the Broadway run. John's Warner contract is just about to terminate and he looks for New York after he finishes "The Postman Always Rings Twice."

RALPH BELLAMY is off for New York, happy as happy can be! He's to have the leading part in "The State of the Union," by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse. This is the first play these two have written since the fabulous "Lute With Father," and when Stromberg gave Ralph permission, he lost no time in heading for the big town. The play opens Oct. 1. Meanwhile, Katherine Bellamy is in Reno, as we told you sometime ago getting her divorce. Katherine, it appears, wants a career and is going to be an actress. Guess she didn't take off all that weight for nothing.

THIS IS WHERE I came in! Chicago has banned "Dillinger," at one time that city's most "sought after" citizen. Well, I've never known the time when Chicago wasn't banning something, starting with the great American movie classic, "The Birth of a Nation." They certainly make an effort to keep the citizens there on the alkaline side. But the girl who is all broken up about the ban is pretty Anne Jeffreys, who plays the lead. She's a native of Chicago and her relatives have all been panting to see her emote in the gangster film. The best she can do is send them a 16-mm film of her "triumph" for purely private, and family showing!

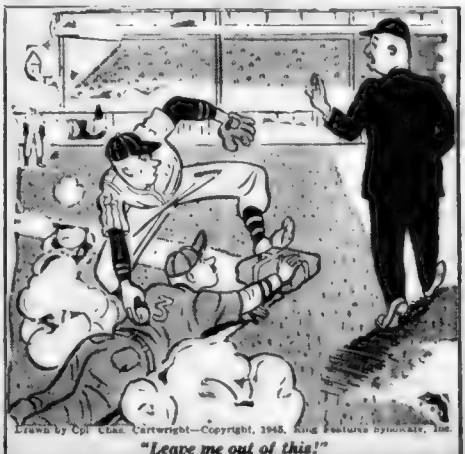

A LINE OR TWO: The Hays office ordered Ann Dvorak to take off more clothes in "Abilene," the Jules Levy picture. They said her garter was too suggestive. Ann, by the way, comes back to cheesecake art for the first time in years, and they tell me she looks gorgeous... Edith Gwynn is getting the last laugh. She had the Morgan Ryan-Arlene Judge story about four weeks ago and it was promptly denied on the air by a feminine commentator who just loooves to deny other people's stories—then the commentator had to take back her word. When Arlene married seriously-minded Johnny Addams, and he departed for sea four days after their wedding, no one believed the marriage would last and the rumor that they had rifted has been current for months... Wally Beery was one of the first to turn his civilian plane over to the government. Now he'll be one of the first to buy a civilian plane.

George Holland is on his annual vacation and his Boston. After Park column will be resumed on July 30.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Harry James has had his trumpet-playing hand insured for $100,000; Katharine Hepburn will return East without making a movie. She wants to be in New York the middle of August for the opening of Spencer Tracy's stage play; Philip Reed, Barbara Hutton's big moment, is making a movie for Pine and Thomas called "Hot Cargo"; the Hank Daniels-Yvonne de Carlo romance broke up for a very practical reason. Hank couldn't get the necessary gas to call on Yvonne in the Valley. Daniels, by the way, has signed a lucrative contract with M-G-M; Ben Lyon planes in today for a weekend with Bebe Daniels and his family. Capt. Frank Alban, who was with Ben in the Eighth Air Force, is here now, the house guest of Perry Ward; Marlene Dietrich gets back today. She will move in with Rita Hayworth until she finds a place to live; the Jay Sommers welcomed a seven-pound 14-ounce boy yesterday morning. Papa is a radio comedy writer, and a good one.

FANNY BRICE, who has been in the hospital for weeks, goes home in a few days; Esther Williams landed such an effective huskyman on Bill Powell a jaw—in their movie, of course—that she cracked a couple of his teeth. She also left him groggy.

WASHINGTON, July 26—Since we—meaning me and the Office of War Information—began our educational courses to instruct Russia that the great interior of America is a barren waste I have received many communications from the world of culture, science, and literature.

The burden of these communications is that I have made a priceless contribution to world knowledge. The letters, with the exception of one which I didn't write myself, shower me with praise.

It seems I have achieved my purpose, which was to further international relations. I always say there is nothing that will bring nations closer together than understanding. It amazes me that nobody thought of that line before.

Among those recognizing the value of my efforts is that distinguished British journalist, scholar and raconteur, Mr. Robert Walthman, of the London News Chronicle.

It might be well to reveal at this time that Mr. Walthman is the author of the celebrated "Cavendish-Fish" letters which have appeared from time to time in this space. If the British Embassy gets sore on learning he is the perpetrator, I am lying as usual.

Writes Mr. Walthman—from a sitting position: "Dear George: I should like you to know how very instructive I found your recent account of your experiences as a member of the Kansas Foreign Legion in the Mexican desert. 'This is an age when none of us should overlook an opportunity to add to the all too scanty fund of popular knowledge of our two countries; and I feel that I cannot do less than furnish you with some information on the British Isles which might help to resolve some of the uncertainties which educational institutions like Hollywood and the English speaking union have not yet had time to deal with."

"EVERY FILMGOER is aware, of course, that London, the capital of England, is perpetually enshrouded in a thick fog, except on Wednesdays and Saturdays, when a heavy, slanting rain falls, but George, how many of your readers know where the fog comes from?

"You need not answer this question: It is rhetorical, and I am going to tell you anyway."

"The whole thing goes back to those distant days when Salisbury Plain, where the Druids lived, was situated in the vicinity of Piccadilly Circus. (It was later removed to Wiltshire, on orders from Anne Boleyn, to make room for the Junior Army and Navy Club.)

"The Druids, as you know, practiced many mysterious arts, and it was the habit of Londoners then to walk across the plain to Stonehenge, the Druid reservation, whenever they were in need of occult guidance."

"One day King Alfred the Great, who will be remembered for his heroic role in the Battle of Hastings (1066), was walking across the plain, intent on consulting a Druid about a wart on the back of his neck."

"The King was in savage mood and walking quickly. Suddenly he tripped and fell. He had stumbled over the slight, girlish figure of Emily Bronte, who had just been pushed from the top of Wuthering Heights by neighbors who couldn't stand her cries of 'Heathcliff,' any longer."

"IT SEEMS the Bronte sisters were wont to amuse themselves by yelling 'Heathcliff'

"Hut-tuo! Hut-tuo! Another morning of this an' I'm moonlighting for the GBI... Toot sweet!"

By George Dixon

and 'Cathy' at each other all day long

"The king worked himself into a royal fury. The girl cowered back, muttering: 'You didn't ought to speak to a person like that—for lumme, you'd scare a person out of seven years' growth, you would!'"

"At that moment Sir Walter Raleigh approached unobserved with his friend, Percy—a particularly accomplished Druid who was treating him for gout. Turning to Emily, Sir Walter thundered: 'Has this man insulted you, Madam?'"

"Emily flushed, but said simply: 'Not at all!'"

"At once the king and Sir Walter drew swords, and began a fierce duel. Sir Walter lunged at the king, but Alfred, a nimble man, sidestepped. At this, Sir Walter muttered: 'Alas!'"

"The remark was overheard by Percy. He eagerly told Sir Walter win, misunderstood it. He thought it was an instruction from Sir Walter to create some mist to confuse the king. Making an elementary Druidical pass, he filled Salisbury Plain with mist."

"When this had happened seven or eight times, the plain was covered with a fog so thick it was already beginning to spill onto London."

"Then the tragic thing happened. Hopelessly flummoxed in the fog, Sir Walter lost his opponent altogether, bumped into Percy, mistook him for the king, and ran him through the middle."

"THE DRUIDS took a poor view of the occurrence. In spite of repeated approaches they declined to lift the fog, holding that the assent of the late Percy would first have to be obtained."

"As this was impossible, and as the London County Council knows almost nothing about the mysterious arts, nobody has been able to do anything about it."

"If there should be any other educational information you would like, George, in the interests of Anglo-American relations and general enlightenment, do not hesitate to ask."

Basis for Menu

By MARTHA LEE

WHEN DINNER seems meager, add a cream soup to the menu to give it a bountiful "air." Make a double recipe, and serve the soup a second time—not as the tempting prelude to a meal, but as a meal in itself.

SPECIAL CREAM SAUCE FOR CREAM SOUP

6 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 medium-sized onion, sliced
3 tbsp. flour
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
3 cups milk

Melt butter, add onion, and cook over low heat 5 minutes, until yellow. Remove onion, if desired. Stir in flour and seasonings, and when well blended, add milk slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture boils. Makes 3 cup.

CREAM OF CELERY SOUP

2 cups finely diced celery
1 cup milk
3 cups special cream sauce
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. pimiento, cut in pieces

Cook celery in milk in double boiler until tender, about 40 minutes. Combine celery and milk with cream sauce. Add Worcestershire sauce and pimiento, and season with more salt and pepper if necessary. Reheat and serve. Makes 6 servings.

CREAM OF CORN SOUP

2 cups canned or cooked corn
2 cups milk
3 cups special cream sauce

Cook corn in milk in double boiler until very soft, about 30 minutes. Force corn and liquid through a sieve, if desired, and combine with cream sauce. Season with more salt and pepper if necessary. Reheat and serve. Makes 6 servings.

CREAM OF GREEN PEA SOUP

2 1/2 cups canned or cooked peas
2 slices onion
1/2 cup thin cream
4 cups special cream sauce
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 tsp. celery salt

Cook peas in liquor from can with onion and dash of sugar. If desired, until soft, about 10 minutes. Force peas, onion and liquid through a sieve. Combine peas and cream with cream sauce. Add nutmeg and celery salt, and season with more salt and pepper if necessary. Reheat and serve. Makes 6 servings.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

3 cups canned tomatoes
2 bay leaves
3 sprigs parsley
6 peppercorns
6 whole cloves
3 sprigs thyme
1 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. celery salt

1 stalk celery, diced
1 medium-sized onion, sliced
Speck of baking soda
3 cups special cream sauce

Simmer tomatoes with herbs, seasonings and other vegetables, uncovered, about 15 minutes, until celery is soft. Force vegetables and liquid through sieve, stir in soda and combine with hot cream sauce. Season with more salt and pepper if necessary. Reheat and serve. Makes 6 servings.

Interruptions

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN: Exactly how should you excuse yourself when you have to speak to one of two people who are engaged in conversation? This sometimes does happen, and I always feel awkward about getting around it. R. W.

When you find it necessary to interrupt a conversation between two people, wait, if you can, for a break in the conversation. Then say to the person, "I beg your pardon, may I speak to you just for a moment?" Then stand aside, to give the person a chance to excuse himself (or herself) to the other person and to come to you.—MRS. BECKMAN.

YOU'LL cut quite a figure at the beach in such interesting resort fogs as Marsha Hunt displays. The two-toned punch coat... with its circular swing effect... to be drawn on at a moment's notice for a stroll... or dropped when a dip in the water is anticipated... is one of the nicest beach innovations. This Cream Conditions the Skin

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

ARCHITECTURAL BEAUTY of a house may be pleasing to the eye... but it's the foundation beneath the surface that gives the dwelling durability and longevity. It may be a homely comparison... but it serves to prove my point... that the beauty of your face for long-life, loveliness and youthfulness is dependent upon the basic care you give it.

You may cover your complexion with all the cosmetic artifices on the market... with rouge and powder and flattering foundations... but if the skin beneath it is nothing more than a canvas, weak and worn, it can't receive such attention properly... and the result is a blotch rather than beauty.

IMPROVES THE SKIN

A good, solid, purposeful cream that cleanses and conditions the skin is like a foundation of a house... it is the bulwark of your facial loveliness... it readies the complexion for fanciness... it improves the skin so that... if you wish... you need use nothing on it but a dusting powder.

If you can bareface it... simply powder your face after cream-cleansing it... you've got the skin anyone would like to touch... you've got a complexion that is of exquisite texture... boasting natural loveliness and unaffected charm. Not all of us search for glamor... not all of us go in for dramatic makeup... not all of us use a beautifying foundation. If you like the simplicity of an untouched complexion... be sure your skin can be bared to the world this way... that it has a petal-smoothness and flawlessness.

WON HONORS

If you do nothing else with your complexion but cream-cleanse it... be certain that is a cream which we favor today... a cream that was formulated many years ago by scientists after a long laboratory research... that won honors in the Hall of Fame at the Chicago World Fair many years ago... that it is a tried and tested product of purest quality.

And that, in addition, embodies a sunshine ingredient to keep the skin healthy, firm and youthful. Listed only as a cleansing cream... it has the potency of conditioning creams... with propensities for softening the texture of your complexion as it works its way through the skin to wringer-clean it of impurities. Use it for summer use... and treat your face to a delectable facial diet.

For the name of this conditioning cleansing cream, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LOVELY TO LOOK AT... that's what you want that returning warrior to say when he first lays eyes on you... as delightful to see and as picturesque to feast on as captivating Columbia Star Jinx Falkenburg looks. Courage, brains, strength... all will bow to facial beauty when that boy comes home... for he wants beauty and femininity in the girl he left behind. Let a purposeful and conditioning cream start your complexion on the road to rehabilitating charm.

Young Marine Asks Girl Of 14 for Date on Leave

Copyright, 1945, King Features Synd., Inc.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm only 14 years old and have met a Marine who is 18 years of age. He asked me to write to him, which I did. In his first letter to me he asked me to go dancing, skating or bowling with him the next time he came home to our town. Shall I go with him?

He also said he was sending me a gift. What it is I don't know, but do you advise me to accept it? My mother is dead, and my father works all day, so I am coming to you for a solution of my problem. I'm not the type of girl who stands on street corners so that the boys can whistle at her.

R. A. F.

If you do go out with this Marine—and fourteen is terribly young to have dates—I hope you won't take a drop of anything to drink. That's where the trouble begins, but unfortunately doesn't end—take ing little drinks "just to be sociable."

If the present he has for you is some trifle he's picked up at a souvenir stand, it will be all right for you to accept it. If it's anything expensive like a piece of jewelry, taking it would be in very bad taste. Having no mother, and a father who is away all day, you must watch your step, and then some.

Dress Facts to Teen-Ager

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE EARLY teens are a time in a girl's life when she needs all the help she can get, and not the least of aids to give her poise are clothes that are charming.

This is the lumpy time of her teens, when her bulges are in the wrong places and she is sensitive about them. This is the time when she feels and looks awkward, and is likely to act in a lawless way if some body doesn't give her some help.

Mothers can do wonders for such girls by seeing to it that they get charming clothes. Nothing is a better morale builder for the young girl, and at the same time she can learn clothes wisdom that will make her that enviable creature—a well-dressed woman—in later life. A girl in a pretty dress or a suit she loves is bound to be a better girl than one in sloppy, shoddy clothes. It's an easy way to help her.

Smart Set Entertain on Cape

YACHTING is the top favorite among younger members of the Wianno Club and families of the cottage colony. Girls as well as boys are becoming proficient handlers of the tiller and sheet.

In the latest junior class race, starting from the Wianno Yacht Club and covering the triangular course, the winner was a Sidney Hinkle of Chestnut Hill, with Jarvis Lambert of Paris, Va., serving as crew. The runner-up was also a feminine skipper, Nan Hansberry of nearby Osterville, with Shirley Ellis of New York as her crew.

Mrs. Sydney Hinkle

Tennis runs a close second on the club's all-weather courts. A recent player is Mrs. John R. Hilder of South Hamilton, who joined her mother, Mrs. William B. Chapman, at Wianno this week. Some of the younger tennis enthusiasts include Ann Shedd of Concord, Beatrice Leydet of Cambridge, and Philip Davis of Boston.

At the latest of the Saturday evening dances planned by the junior committee of the club, novelty dances and dance games added gaiety and informality. The winner of last week's dance contest was vivacious Ginger Pease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Pease of Brookline.

SITTING with a group at one of the tables by the dance floor were Mr. and Mrs. Emily Cuthbert of Boston. Other Bostonians enjoying dancing to the music of Ken Reeves' Orchestra were Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. George Walker of Concord and Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Beggs of Lincoln were also present.

Before the dance, held in the ballroom and on the terrace overlooking the ocean, many cocktail and dinner parties were given at the club. Mrs. Talmadge Cherry of Cazenovia, N. Y., entertained a group of sixteen for cocktails in the Coral Room. Among her guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. Nelson Conant and their daughter, Julia, of Dedham. Dean Donald David of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, and Mrs. David, were hosts for a party of fourteen at dinner. While their son, Cpl. John A. Moir, Jr., USA, is with them on furlough, Mr. and Mrs. John Arthur Moir of Chestnut Hill, entertained a large group of friends in the summer home at a cocktail party to precede the buffet supper at Wianno Club.

THE WOMEN'S COMMITTEE, Special Gifts Division, of the Greater Boston United Fund is headed by Mrs. James H. Perkins, assisted by Miss Betty A. Bartlett of Westwood, Mrs. Lawrence Coolidge of Hamilton, Mrs. Frederic S. Goodwin of Wrentham, Mrs. Herbert J. Reilly of Belmont, Mrs. Donald C. Watson of Brookline, Mrs. Thomas B. Williams of Dover, Mrs. S. Eliot Guild, Mrs. Robert Homans, Mrs. Atherton Loring, Jr., Mrs. Francis B. Lathrop and Mrs. Edward A. Taft, all of Boston.

A RECENT REVIVAL of old-fashioned dancing will draw many people from all of Essex County to the Topsfield Town Hall this Saturday to enjoy the ever-popular "Topsfield Tunkets." The 1945 series are sponsored by the Topsfield Church and are under the direction of Rev. John R. deSouza, assisted by Dorothy Leach, Eileen Titus, Carolyn Hayes and Donald Hallowell.

Santa Fe at War Front 25 Months

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—A 221,000-mile front line tour—the war's longest for any major naval unit—put the light cruiser Santa Fe through 42 air strikes, 12 shore bombardments and four surface actions. And during those 25 months, the Santa Fe sank seven Japanese ships and downed as many enemy planes.

Telling the story today of her record tour of active duty without a major overhaul, the Navy said the Santa Fe did not lose a man or suffer any serious battle damage.

Recently returned to this country for routine repairs, about 1500 workers spent nearly a million man hours at San Pedro, Cal., completing the ship's overhaul and patching minor damage incurred while assisting the carrier Franklin.

12 CO's Still Awake in 4th Day of Sleepless Marathon

PASADENA, Cal., July 26 (AP)—Twelve sleepy men still had their eyes open today as they went into the fourth day of a 112-hour sleep experiment.

The 12, all conscientious objectors in their 20's, volunteered for the test, which began Monday at 5:45 a. m. and will finish tomorrow night at 10. California Institute of Technology is conducting the experiment for the armed forces to study fatigue's effect on the human system.

Frequent medical examinations have shown the men to be in good physical condition although showing signs of fatigue. They are permitted but one cup of coffee a day, but get four substantial meals, the last one at midnight. "It's easier staying awake while you're very active than when you're resting," said one of the

Ikkes Urges Coal Czar for Reich

WASHINGTON, July 26 (INS)—Interior Secretary Ikkes said today a coal administrator should be appointed to supervise mining in American, French and British occupied zones of Germany.

Of coal production in Germany Ikkes said, "We are not doing our job in the production of coal over there."

Ikkes disclosed that 700,000 tons of soft coal of the 6,000,000 tons he proposed should be sent to Europe from American production already are on their way over the Atlantic.

Lottery Welsher Given Jail Term

A Watertown woman's good luck proved to be the opposite to Louis Goosebie, 33, of Northfield St., Roxbury, today when Municipal Judge Elijah Adlow labeled him a "welsher" fined him $1000 and sentenced him to jail for three months.

Goosebie appealed after he was found guilty on four counts of setting up and promoting a lottery.

Sophie Yankun of Bradford St., Watertown, told the court she "played" $3 on 5500 in a number pool with Goosebie. The number "came out" but when Goosebie failed to pay her $1050 and offered her $200 in settlement, she testified, she called police.

Fight Against Insect Horde Is Gardener's Major Task

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Garden Department, Norfolk County Agricultural Station and Director of the Boston Garden-American-Bunday Advertiser Garden on the Common.

In many vegetable gardens, insects are now making serious inroads and doing much damage before they are recognized. Heavy showers have washed off earlier applications of dust and it has not been replaced.

As these insects grow larger, it takes more material to kill them.

Yesterday I visited a garden where the outer leaves of the broccoli were full of holes. Spray had been applied on top of the leaves while the green worm was feeding on the under side. For sprays or dusts to be effective, they must be applied on both sides of the leaf.

I have already mentioned a number of the common insects, but new ones will appear from time to time. This week gardeners are meeting up with aphids of various colors. They may be either green, red or black but all do the same damage. At first they do not seem to do much damage, but as the season advances you will find that they continue to get more numerous. Light attacks can be controlled with rotenone or pyrethrum, but if the infestation is heavy I would suggest thorough spraying or dusting with nicotine sulphate or nicotine dust.

Cucumber beetles are now feeding on the blossoms as well as the leaves. Gardeners must continue to dust with rotenone or arsenate-lime dust to keep this pest down. Dust lightly, but be sure that all foliage is covered.

Another generation of green cabbage worms are now hatching. These worms look so much like the cabbage leaf that many gardeners miss them until they see

Garson-Peck Film at Loew's

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picture of Marcia Davenport's best-seller, "The Valley of Decision," starring Greer Garson and Gregory Peck, is being given its first local showing in Loew's State and Orpheum theaters.

The film tells the story of the tempestuous romance of the titian-haired Irish beauty, Mary Rafferty, played by Miss Garson, and Gregory Peck, as the son of the steel king. It's the dramatic story of the servant girl who falls in love with her employer's son and he with her.

Love is theirs, but not marriage, as their different stations stand in her way. She puts an ocean between them, returns to marry him at his father's request. But their plans are smashed by the bullet of a madman that kills his father, and many years pass before they finally attain their happiness.

In the supporting cast are Lionel Barrymore, Donald Crisp, Marsha Hunt, Preston Foster and Gladys Cooper.

On the same program, billed as an added feature, will be shown the first official motion picture of the Navy's fight against Japanese suicide planes, "The Fleet That Came to Stay."

BURLESQUES AT CASINO
Burlesque continues through the summer at the Casino Theater where Lynn Paige and Bubbles O'Dell hold over as the featured beauties. Steve Mills heads the comedy department.

Simple Test in Lend-Lease Logic for Americans

By AUSTEN LAKE

MATCH THESE TWIN NEWS ITEMS and see if they jibe with your sense of lend-lease logic.

(1) Washington—A severe fuel oil shortage is forecast for next winter in the northeast region of the U. S. A. This will be caused partly by increased demand and shipping distance in the Pacific war zone, and partly from LACK OF SUFFICIENT RAIL TRANSPORT.

Washington—Lend-lease statistics revealed that the United States has shipped 1746 locomotives and 20,600 freight cars to France during and after the war. Another 30,200 freight cars are being prepared for transportation.

Will some kind Congressman determine why we are shipping 30,200 additional freight cars to Europe now that the war is ended? Presumably a fair portion of the 50,800 car total allocated abroad are fuel gondolas. Whose needs are more immediate to our Washington spendthrifts—those of postwar Europe, or those of "have-not" America? Read on:

Whose House Shortage Comes First?

(2) NEW YORK—Returning service men and their families are facing a serious house shortage. Veterans' families, if lucky enough to find anything, are obliged to rent any ramshackle apartment or lodging. The home shortage is as a deterrent in the Army and Navy's program of veterans' discharges.

(Business Week, July issue)—"First reconstruction project for England under lend-lease is 30,000 pre-fabricated houses at a cost of $50,000,000. Allocation for this project was approved by WPB on Feb. 9. The materials for these houses will come out of the allocations which otherwise have been made to our own civilian economy and represent practically no impact on military effort."

This column has daily quota of despair letters from service men and their wives who are searching for lodgings—any kind of lodgings! They have been to the various housing authorities, service rental agencies, etc. They can't find a place to live. Their children are often "farmed out." They are holed up in squalid, single rooms. Some of these letters are frantic. And Jolly old lend-lease presents England with 30,000 pre-fabricated homes, with presumably more to come. What kind of head-in-the-clouds philanthropy is that?

(3) News Publisher's report—No relief is yet in sight from continued rigid rationing of newsprint. Economies are advised—thinner Saturday editions, self curtailed circulation, elimination of non-essential news, restriction in advertising.

(4) Congressional Record, July 21—(Extension of remarks by Hon. Robert A. Grant of Indiana) "In addition we shipped France in France, this year 106 tons of newsprint for French civil use. . . . Although Italy does not qualify for lend-lease. . . . The Allied Control Commission landed in Italy since July, 1945, 6000 tons of newsprint, for purely civilian purposes."

The Congressional Record does not state, but it is presumed that similar allocations, "purely for civilian purposes" have sent precious newsprint to many other liberal-minded nations and enemy countries, including Germany, from our scarce stockpiles. Good old, generous-hearted Uncle Sam!

(5) Any newspaper, any day—"The condition of road disrepair is such that motorists are cautioned to display the greatest care to avoid sinkholes and pits to prevent bruising tires. No prospect of a thorough reconditioning of roads is expected until after V-J Day."

(6) Business Week, July—"To date we have spent $6,280,000 for repair and maintenance of 3832 miles of Italian highways. As in miles of railroads, have restored bridges, docks and port facilities in Rome, Naples, Palermo and half a dozen lesser cities. . . . We have also pledged France 200,000 heavy duty truck tires."

Massachusetts State Engineer of the State Highway Commission, which does a thorough job, reports that the latest annual figure for cost of keeping up 1900 miles of highways was $2,635,770, or about 2-3ths of what we spent in Italy. That figure also includes the operation and maintenance of drawbridges.

(7) HAROLD ICKES, FUEL ADMINISTRATOR—"To avoid a serious fuel shortage it is imperative that 20,000 miners now in U. S. uniforms should be released for work in the mines."

(8) Business Week, July—"Since July, 1943, we have given Italy 290,000 tons of coal for civilian usage."

How many more hundred of thousands of tons of U. S. coal has been shipped to other European countries "For civilian usage," while our own, especially in New England's "deficiency area" will have to go short next winter? And what kind of charity is it which consumes the benefactor?

(9) Congressional Record, July 21—"Since March 11, 1941, we have authorized $64,192,498.00 for lend-lease. Through June, 1945 total expenditures on lend-lease accounts were $42,653,684.00. This leaves roughly $21,538,814.00 in lend-lease funds still available for the remaining year of operations."

(10) Chairman Marriner S. Eckles of the Federal Reserve Board: "Far from making vast loans to foreign countries after the war we should limit exports for several years because we will be unable to produce even the goods which our own people will need. . . . About ten billion in cash and earmarked gold owned by foreign nations is now in the U. S. ready to be spent." (Ed.—While we furnish free handouts in lend-lease to the same nations.)

Well Scholars, how does that jibe with your sense of logic? And that isn't a 100th of it!

Fabulous Ferriss Is Sport Pet of Nation

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Dave Ferriss reported for noon practice at Fenway Park today considerably refreshed and deeply-tanned. "The Cape is a restful place," said the Sox freshman who will seek his 18th victory against the Senators here tomorrow.

"No, I didn't go swimming," he said. "Never do during the baseball season. Tightens up the muscles. I just lay on the sand at Smokey Kelleher's place at Dennisport and relaxed. It was the first complete day of rest I've had since I reported to the Sox."

He needed it. No first year man in the history of baseball has ever been subjected to such a grind as Ferriss. Since he won his first game against the A's, April 29, he hasn't had a minute to himself. At home, he's been appearing at this smoker, at that reunion, three or four times a week until he's been worn to a thread. Too, he's never missed an exhibition game, for a practice. It's the same on the road. Kids in the visiting cities seek his autograph as zealously as do those in Boston. The rainy Sunday he lost his first game to Hank Gowdy in New York, 100 hero-worshippers mobbed his cab. Traffic was tied up. But even the police couldn't keep the kids away. At least 10 got into the cab with him, and when he arrived at the Commodore there was another tie-up. The cabbie himself wound up getting his signature.

Dave Ferriss

SPORT PET OF NATION
At every stop in the West, soldiers from nearby camps troop into town when the Sox arrive. All single out Ferriss. They take up his every spare moment. On the trains it is the same way. Porters and passengers are at him endlessly. . . . At home he seldom ducks the throng of youngsters who await him daily. He spends practically an hour each afternoon scribbling Dave "Boo" Ferriss. "Only time I mind is when I catch them repeating over and over," he said. So the day of rest was doubly welcome to Boston's No. 1 baseball personality. Baseball fandom should ease up on the good-natured giant if they expect him to keep winning.

Ferriss will be seeking his ninth straight win tomorrow. . . . Both Bob Garbaruk and Bob Johnson should be ready to resume play tomorrow. . . . Lazor, Camille, Baker and Terry are as ardent fishermen as Ted Williams. . . . The Senators are here tomorrow for three single games.

A. L. Attendance Mark Tops '44

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—Attendance at American League baseball games is edging toward the three-million mark and despite adverse weather conditions is above corresponding figures for 1944, President Will Harridge said today.

In games up to last Monday, Harridge said, the attendance was 2,795,468, an increase of 370,195 over the same period last year. Last season's total attendance was 4,798,158, approximately a million above the 1943 total, in addition to 197,075 fans attending war relief games. The league's all-time season high was 5,433,791 in 1940.

Eddie Shore Buys Ft. Worth Ice Club

SPRINGFIELD, July 26 (INS)—Eddie Shore, former all-time star defenseman for the Boston Bruins, announced today he has purchased the Fort Worth, Tex., club of the United States Hockey League.

Shore is owner of the Springfield Indians of the American League, currently inactive because the Army Quartermaster Corps occupies the Eastern States Coliseum, its home ice.

Abbott, Costello Thrill Ball Fans

BALTIMORE, July 26 (AP)—Last night was Abbott and Costello night at Municipal Stadium, home of Baltimore's International League Orioles, and 25,012 persons, top local crowd of the season, were on hand to see the movie comedians in person. The pair did a skit via the amplifying system, demonstrated how to play baseball and sat in on Baltimore's 1-0 victory over Toronto.

Phillies in Market With Top Dollar

PHILADELPHIA, July 26 (AP)—"If willingness to spend will get us out of the cellar, we are ready and eager," Herb Pennock said yesterday as his Philadelphia Phillies headed home, 18½ games behind the seventh place Boston Braves.

"And we won't quibble about a few thousand dollars one way or the other," he added. "We have the money. If anybody wants to sell, I'll guarantee the Phillies will top the best offer."

Horsemen Quit Bookies To Wager in Mutuels

By JACK CONWAY

ONE OF THE reasons why the mutual handle at Suffolk Downs soars past $1,000,000 each day is because the horsemen stand in the mutual lines along with the other bettors and purchase their tickets on their choices. There was a time when a horseman would feel that he was losing standing if he were to bet his money through the machines. The horsemen each had their favorite bookmaker, and they would wager their money away from the track in the hope of getting better odds.

Times have changed in the racing industry, and the horsemen are willing to take a smaller price than they might have been able to have secured from a bookmaker so that they can have the satisfaction of collecting their winnings in the event they had the right horse.

By betting by the bookmakers was at its height when Frank Erickson was the gambling king of the United States. Even Erickson's enemies, and they include Mayor LaGuardia of New York, admit he was not a picker when it came to holding big bets.

Erickson was to bookmakers who took bets on horse racing much as the New York Stock Exchange is to the business of dealing in securities. All major transactions passed through Erickson's New York office. It was not uncommon for Erickson to handle $1,000,000 a day.

If a horseman placed a $5000 to $10,000 wager on his horse with a bookmaker in Kansas City or Los Angeles, part of the wager usually ended back in Erickson's New York office. The average bookmaker cannot take the risk of holding a big bet, and he tries to transfer part of it to another bookmaker.

Any bookmaker in the United States could give any part of his bets to Erickson's office. Erickson knew that with sufficient capital the bookmaker in the end always beats the bettor. So he held thousands of dollars in wagers that the average bookmaker could not afford to keep.

Like a big insurance company, Erickson had his risks figured out so that at the end of the year he always ended up with a profit.

THIS CONDITION, of course, helped keep up payoff prices at tracks as most of the horsemen's own money did not pass through the mutual machines. Erickson only sent a small part of the money bet with him back to the tracks.

Mayor LaGuardia warned on Erickson and succeeded in stopping his bookmaking operations in New York. The bookmakers lost their clearing house, and began swapping bets among themselves. This did not work out well as some of them ran out on their customers when the bettor made a hit.

Horsemen found it was too risky betting more than $100 with the average run of bookmakers. There was no Frank Erickson in the background to guarantee payment of bets.

After the horsemen had lost heavily to bookmakers who did not pay off, they decided to play their money through the mutual machines at the major tracks of the country. They recognized the fact they would get less odds than under the old system, but they knew they were certain to get paid off if their horse won.

THE HUGE "tote" board in the infield tells the story. Every person in the race track knows when anyone is making a large wager on a horse. In an effort to keep up the price as much as possible, horsemen wait until the last minute before wagering. Even under such a system they are frequently obliged to settle for even money when in the days of million dollar bookmaking handles they received as much as 5 to 1 for their money.

Once Erickson lost his power, the small fry among the bookmakers would often send most of a wager back to the track. In Florida, special messengers used to take large bundles of money from horse rooms and dump them into the mutual machines at the track.

The bookmakers also set a time limit on when they would receive big wagers from horsemen and others. They wished to have ample time to send any part of the money back to the track if they wished to do so. The bookmakers then told their friends the names of the persons betting with them and this often tended to depress the odds.

The horsemen now are willing to bet their money through the mutual machines. Betting racing stables, like any big bettor, over a period of time are wrong more often than they are right and they usually go broke. Only a few persons have ever succeeded in beating the races.

Ruffing Back In Harness

NEW YORK, July 26—Charley "Red" Ruffing made his first appearance on the mousetrap for the Yankees today since being released from the Army Air Corps.

He pitched Oct. 5, 1942 in the last game of the World Series against Johnny Beazley of the Cardinals. Jesse Flores opposed him for the Yankees.

FIRST INNING
ATHLETICS—Hall fouled to Grimes. Peck struck out. Siebert flied to Metheny. NO RUNS.

YANKEES—Stirnweis walked. Metheny singled. Stirnweis going to third and when Peck threw wild past third, Stirnweis scored, and Metheny went to third. Metheny scored as Hall tossed out Martin. Etten was out Siebert to Flores. Grimes flied to Estrella. TWO RUNS.

SECOND INNING
ATHLETICS—Estrella struck out. Rosar flied to Metheny. McGhee struck out. NO RUNS.

YANKEES—Stainback flied to McGhee. Crossetti lined to Hall. Robinson walked. Ruffing struck out. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING
ATHLETICS—Kell lined to Stirnweis. Busch singled. Flores sacrificed. Ruffing to Etten. Hall popped to Stirnweis. NO RUNS.

YANKEES—Stirnweis flied to Estrella. Metheny lined to Peck. Hall threw out Martin. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING
ATHLETICS—Peck fanned. Siebert popped to Crossetti. Estrella tripled. Rosar fouled to Robinson. NO RUNS.

YANKEES—Etten walked. Grimes fouled to Rosar. Stainback tripled, scoring Etten. Crossetti was thrown out by Hall. Stainback scoring. Robinson rolled to Hall. TWO RUNS.
